The United Micronations Multi-Oceanic Archipelago (UMMOA), which was founded by the Hon Most Rev Dr Cesidio Tallini on 19 January 2008, is a territorial nation and community of nations. The UMMOA's 21 main insular possessions have no indigenous population, and an inhabitable area of about 39 square kilometres (15 square miles).

The UMMOA holds these truths to be self-evident, and also makes the realisation of these truths possible for the first time: that all nations, big or small, independent and less independent, are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; and that among these rights are life, liberty, and sovereignty!

Unlike the United States of America, the UMMOA doesn't make freedom possible for one people only, but for all peoples, of all nations! The UMMOA allows even virtual micronations to have at least a minimal territory, in order to fulfil Montevideo Convention requirements, and the UMMOA is, in fact, the n-result of applied Cesidian law (see “Cesidian law, the Cesidian law jurisdiction, and Statutory and Common law Proofs of Citizenship” section below).

On 6 May 2008, the UMMOA gained both a territorial and virtual domain when Cesidian Root operators legally invaded United States name space, and in the most peaceful and bloodless battle in world history they annexed the 11 insular possessions formerly known as the United States Minor Outlying Islands (USMOI).

By the way, this story is no joke, nor was it treated as such, for on 22 July 2008, the UMMOA even achieved a small measure of de jure status for itself when it became an archipelago accredited and incorporated with the International States Parliament for Safety and Peace, an intergovernmental organisation of states juridically recognised under the Vienna Conventions of 1961 and 1963.

The UMMOA today is more than just the physical USMOI, since the City of Cyberterra has become the virtual capital of the UMMOA, and thus the virtual city has merged with the original eleven insular areas, and has become a very real twelfth insular area. Not only does Cyberterra have a different local time compared to the other insular possessions, and the local time is the Cyberterra Mean Time (CMT) time zone, but Cyberterra also has its own terrestrial coordinates of 43°0'0” North and 15°0'0” East in the Adriatic Sea, and thus occupies a third ocean or sea after the already physically-occupied Pacific Ocean and Caribbean Sea. Moreover, Cyberterra utilises the amateur radio call sign of IL6, which is in fact the non-official call sign used for the Adriatic Sea islands of the Italian regions of Marche and Abruzzo.

As the HMRD Cesidio Tallini likes to point out, he may be considered a Long Island resident. However, it is in the City of Cyberterra where Tallini is effectively domiciled. It is the person who is domiciled who is in a place legally; a mere resident, on the other hand, might actually be an illegal alien. A mere resident, could also be the exploited national of a government which exercises complete tyranny over its people, through a government of the corporation, by the corporation, and for the corporation. So Cyberterra, little more than a mathematical point in the middle of the Adriatic Sea, occupies no real space through its claim, and thus the claim is fully legal under international law, and this despite the material limitations imposed by the Montevideo Convention. The City of Cyberterra is today the world's first authentic cybernetic realm (or κυβερνήτης – kyvernítis).

In the beginning, the United Micronations Multi-Oceanic Archipelago (UMMOA) had 12 components:

1. eleven islands, scattered across the Pacific Ocean and Caribbean Sea: Navassa Island, Bajo Nuevo Bank, Serranilla Bank, Jarvis Island, Palmyra Atoll, Kingman Reef, Johnston Atoll, Baker Island, Howland Island, Midway Atoll, and Wake Island;
2. the UMMOA Community of Nations.

The City of Cyberterra was originally founded in September 2002, but it wasn't until the concept of Cyberterra Mean Time (CMT) was introduced in August 2009 that Cyberterra began to morph into a Cesidian law jurisdiction, the episcopal see of the Cesidian Church, the capital of the UMMOA, and the 13th national component.

On 6 August 2010, the 14th national component came into being.

The UMMOA originally had four de jure embassies, i.e. potential embassies to the sovereign countries of the United States, Italy, Cameroon, and India. Seeing how difficult it is to gain even minimal legal status with sovereign states, the UMMOA registered the Fifth World Community (5WC) as the 14th national component, in order to begin to establish natural imperia for the application of Cesidian law, and within registered Cesidian law jurisdictions.

So now the UMMOA, through the Fifth World Community, has gained another five de facto embassies:

- The Tallini Family on Long Island;
- The Lion and The Lamb Commonwealth in the US state of Iowa;
- Commonwealth of Drakenheim in the US state of South Carolina;
- Commonwealth of Drakesburg, also in the US state of South Carolina;
- Commonwealth of Nations Oasis Belize, in the Central American country of Belize;
- Palazzo dei Poeti in Italy.

By the way, the Fifth World Community is an inhabited locality, and the world's first diaxenospitia — a collection of houses or buildings scattered around the world, and treated like a distributed town or city.

On 7 January 2011, the fifteenth national component came into being when the Governor of the UMMOA claimed a piece of the Great Pacific Garbage Patch (GPGP), and launched the Great Pacific Garbage Patch Treaty (GPGPT) website.

On 23 June 2011, the sixteenth national component came into being when the Governor of the UMMOA claimed a piece of every oceanic garbage patch, and launched the Multi-Oceanic Garbage Patch Treaty (MOGPT) website.

On 26 June 2011, the seventeenth national component came into being when the Governor of the UMMOA claimed a piece of all of the space debris, and launched the Space Debris Treaty (SDT) website.

On 20 August 2011, with a great suggestion of the Hon. Ilya Pakhomov, the UMMOA decided to claim an 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23th, and 24th national component. Therefore the UMMOA now claims the following disappearing islands: Ghoramara Island (India), Lohachara Island (India), Bedford Island (India), New Moore/South Talpatti (India/Bangladesh), Tebua Tarawa (Kiribati), Bikeman Island (Kiribati) and Abanuea (Kiribati).

On 11 September 2011, the UMMOA expanded its claims by claiming a piece of the African continent. With the seas claiming greater and greater areas of both lowland territories and islands, the UMMOA, as a signatory of both the GPGPT and MOGPT treaties, decided to claim a 25th national component, the Banc du Geysier (France/Madagascar/Comoros).

On 14 September 2011, the UMMOA as a state became an Associate Member of the Organization of Emerging African States (OEAS), and as an international organisation it became a Consultative Agency to the OEAS Secretariat on the matter of the Oceanic Biome.

On 26 October 2011, the UMMOA became an affiliated institutional member of the Federation of International Blue Cross & Blue Crescent Organisations (FIBCO).

On 1 March 2012, the UMMOA is recognised as a Nation and State by the Intelligence Bureau Investigation (IBI) Corporation, an Intergovernmental Organisation of States. On 3 March 2012, the UMMOA is recognised by AIMA-CIVE.

On 8 March 2012, an UMMOA member claims a new Red Sea island. The island, located in the Zubair Group, and unnamed until that day, was baptised "Aphrodite Island" by the HMRD Cesidio Tallini, the Governor of the UMMOA, and claimed on behalf of all UMMOA nations. Aphrodite Island became the UMMOA's 26th national component.

Territorially speaking, these eleven claims are recognised by the International States Parliament for Safety and Peace (ISPSP): Navassa Island, Bajo Nuevo Bank, Serranilla Bank, Jarvis Island, Palmyra Atoll, Kingman Reef, Johnston Atoll, Baker Island, Howland Island, Midway Atoll, and Wake Island. This single claim is recognised by the Organization of Emerging African States (OEAS): Banc du Geysier. The OEAS also recognises these islands or reefs as UMMOA protectorates: Bassas da India, Europa Island, Glorioso Islands, Juan de Nova Island, Tromelin Island, Mayotte, and the Chagos Archipelago. So two intergovernmental organisations recognise the UMMOA's claims to 12 islands, and the UMMOA is also recognised as the protector of another 7 islands or archipelagos.

On 25 March 2012, Saint René Descartes University, in partnership with the Centre for Philosophical Studies of the Existentialist School of Montedoglio, started the first Italian-language training course on Neoexistentialism and Fifth World Philosophy.

On 30 March 2012, the Cyberterra Treaty became effective.

On 1 April 2012, the first Consensus AMOMUS is published.

On 9 April 2012, the Governor of the UMMOA launches the SIGNOR (The Messianic Games), the first, well-organised, multidisciplinary games for non-States on Italian soil.

The United Micronations Multi-Oceanic Archipelago is thus both territorial and virtual, and perhaps the world's first nation founded for the purpose of peace.

The Micronational Professional Registry (MPR)

The Micronational Professional Registry (MPR), which was founded by the HMRD Cesidio Tallini on 3 March 2006, is a serious unrecognised government organisation (SUGO). While certain government organisations only accept independent states, or nations without states that are indigenous and ancient as members, and exclude all others, almost as if all other nations have no rights, or have no leaders to represent them, the MPR will accept any organised nation or micronation that is endorsed by someone who is 21 or older, and demonstrates to be a true professional.

The MPR, which paradoxically is not a governmental organisation, currently recognises in a de facto manner 4 Fourth World nations, 12 Fifth World nations, and 21 Sixth World nations. The MPR also recognises 25 sovereign states; 12 US states, 'shelf nations', and international organisations; and 3 cities or inhabited localities. The MPR also recognises government agencies, universities, schools, news agencies, alternative DNS root name server systems, and non-profit organisations.

Besides being a real professional registry, the MPR also issues independent intellectual property instruments such as Print Monopolies, Enterprise Names, Enterprise Marks, and MPR Patents, and thus protects intellectual property independently of other nations or international conventions. On 30 March 2010, a US Judge struck down a patent on cancer genes, thanks also to the efforts of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and the Public Patent Foundation. However, the MPR has always maintained that life form patents are not legitimate, or that they do not encourage progress or human rights, and the MPR doesn't allow or recognise patents on human genes, unlike the US Patent Office, which has so far allowed the biotech industry to ludicrously claim about 20% of the human genome.

In the past, the MPR has also published official warnings about verified terrorist micronations, and has even succeeded in prosecuting scam artists who were running a diploma mill that was violating the rights, and sullyng the reputation of a micronation called the Principality of Sealand.

The MPR is truly unique, and even other micronational organisations are official world photocopies in comparison. It recognises all real professionals and semi-professionals 21 years old and older, and does not otherwise discriminate on the basis of sex, race, age, national origin, micronational allegiance, sexual orientation, family composition or type, religion, disability, or veteran status. The MPR also recognises all real professional and semi-professional companies, institutions, or nations, and does not discriminate on the basis of registered or incorporated status, institutional or national accreditation, territorial status, or UN/UNPO membership.

The MPR is not a party or signatory to the Hague Convention of 1961 abolishing the requirement of diplomatic or consular legalisation for foreign public documents. It is original even here, since the MPR recognises all foreign documents simply because a professional or semi-professional person has presented them, and then it recognises any possible companies, organisations, schools, universities, institutions, jurisdictions, dominions, nations, micronations, territories, or states. This is a "bottom-up" or grassroots honour system, not the "top-down" or imperialistic recognition that is implied by the Hague Convention of 1961.

In late May 2011 a real prince joined the Micronational Professional Registry. In fact, this prince was made a prince by H.R.H. Don Francesco Nicola Roberto Paternò Castello of the Royal House of Aragon, carrier of the house's dynastic rights as jus majestatis and jus honorum. This development, and the realisation that the MPR also had at least another three de facto or de jure princes, caused on 29 May 2011 the registration and incorporation of Micro State and its six higher order de facto and/or de jure nations. So the MPR has been so successful so far that it was forced to create a higher order organisation with part of its membership.

The MPR discriminates only against certain nations. On 14 August 2009, the MPR has enacted the following policy: any sovereign state recognised by the MPR that ends up on the United States Commission on International Religious Freedom's (USCIRF) list of "Countries of Particular Concern" (CPC) — the US government's designation for countries with ongoing, egregious violations of religious freedom — shall cease to be recognised by the MPR. Sovereign states on the CPC list that were not already recognised, shall automatically become natio non grata. So the MPR only discriminates against nations or organisations that are devoted to terrorism, and/or egregious violations of religious freedom.

The MPR is thus perhaps the world's first non-governmental organisation founded for the purpose of peace, human rights, intellectual property rights, and national rights.

“Obama should legalise micronations” petition

The “Obama should legalise micronations”, a Change.org petition that was authored by the HMRD Cesidio Tallini on 22 November 2009, and which is now supported by over 170 signatures of US residents, makes it very feasible for governments like the United States to actually legalise micronations in the same way churches, denominations, and sects of many religions are legal today, and without the impractical need for governments to recognise any micronational territorial claims. This, in turn, makes the freedoms that are only theoretically available under the Montevideo Convention fully applicable, and allows unprecedented conditions of peace to flourish worldwide as more and more nations and micronations gain legal recognition from the United States, and potentially from other states in the future as well. After all, women started voting only in a few countries, and now virtually all countries except Saudi Arabia and Vatican City allow full or partial woman suffrage.

The petition could also allow the legalisation of non-violent secessionist macronations, and also has the potential to stop, or mitigate the effects of, terrorist organisations, since any major change in this direction would also dramatically change the way most people perceive the United States and the Western World.

Advanced scriptural interpretation seems to suggest that the “Obama should legalise micronations” petition could even enable the fulfilment of this utopian biblical prophecy:

And the wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them. (Isaiah 11:6)

We sincerely hope that President Barack Obama will eventually honour this petition with good will. The “Obama should legalise micronations” petition is thus a genuine petition for peace and national rights.

Cesidian law, the Cesidian law jurisdiction, and Statutory and Common law Proofs of Citizenship

Cesidian law, which was initially conceived on 25 July 2003 with the birth of the jus cerebri electronici legal concept, and further developed later by the HMRD Cesidio Tallini, shows that Roman law (jus sanguinis/jus soli) doesn't apply at all to the Internet, but rather Cesidian law (jus cerebri electronici), and that any state's claim to the Internet based on the location of a server or client is in fact illegitimate. This, in turn, gives a legal and philosophical foundation for overturning the illegitimate monopoly that states currently exercise over the Internet, and provides average people all over the world with an independent jurisdiction that is truly of the people, by the people, and for the people.

Cesidian law jurisdictions, which were first conceived and launched on 28 August 2009, and made more concrete on 6 August 2010 with the birth of the Fifth World Community (5WC), make the freedoms that are only theoretically available under the Montevideo Convention fully applicable by providing a foundation for Cesidian law; by making the application of Cesidian law more viable on the Internet through the increased use of the Open Internet called the Cesidian Root; and by making jus humanae salutis, the Cesidian law “right of human health (or salvation)” more practical, since Cesidian law jurisdictions allow Fifth World Health Organisation (5WHO) professionals greater freedom to practice natural forms of medicine than is possible today even in the most democratic countries.

Statutory and Common law Proofs of Citizenship, on the other hand, not only represent, collectively, strong proofs of citizenship in any nation or country, but since both proofs of citizenship are also available to virtual states, they provide further evidence that genuine citizenship can in fact exist independent of any territorial possession. Genuine virtual citizenship is neither ephemeral, nor impossible, but simply more dependent of the will of free men and women, and their willingness to support alternative, though not indispensable, state structures.

Cesidian law, and the derivative Cesidian law jurisdiction, are thus legal developments which foster both peace and human rights, and less dependence on enslaving territorial states, and their materialistic paradigm.

The book, All Religions Are Cults: And What a Few Good Priests, Monks, Rabbis and Mullahs Can Do About It

The book, All Religions Are Cults: And What a Few Good Priests, Monks, Rabbis and Mullahs Can Do About It, published by the HMRD Cesidio Tallini on 17 October 2009, offers ideas for improving religion, any religion. It provides a rational foundation not for the concept of true church, which has caused much religious strife throughout human history, but for the concept of true religion, which is independent of any particular religion or religious tradition.

This seminal work in genuine religious tolerance and inclusiveness defines what makes a true religion, in the most positive meaning of the term, and what makes a cult, in the most negative meaning. Rather than just pointing fingers, however, the book introduces the six criteria that make a religion, even a minority religion a true religion, and these ideas can be used to improve every religion by its believers, or by those who are priests, monks, rabbis, mullahs, religious people of any kind, or theologians.

The book, All Religions Are Cults: And What a Few Good Priests, Monks, Rabbis and Mullahs Can Do About It, thus provides a solid basis of religious ideas for global peace and understanding.

The Cesidian Root

The Cesidian Root is an alternative DNS root, or alternative Internet, that was founded on 30 September 2005 by the HMRD Cesidio Tallini, and Massimiliano Mastrocinque, a brilliant Italian IT. Later Karin and Peter Dambier joined the team with their eclectic IT skills, and there are now 25 Cesidian Root root servers on all major land masses of the world except Greenland and Antarctica.

The Cesidian Root was started for the benefit of Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth World nations, which don't have any rights under the US government's ICANN/IANA root. Even though the Internet became what it is today because of the efforts of many people, and mainly volunteers; even though Cesidian law shows that Roman law (jus sanguinis/jus soli) doesn't apply at all to the Internet, but rather Cesidian law (jus cerebri electronici), and that any state's claim to the Internet based on the location of a server or client is in fact illegitimate; states and states alone today hold a de facto monopoly over DNS through the US government's ICANN/IANA root.

Through the Cesidian Root, today one can resolve all 313 top-level domains in the ICANN/IANA root zone, as well as an additional 128 top-level domains. Moreover, this Open Internet is still open to all peaceful people and groups of people, and hasn't turned into just another taxing or corporate-dominated entity.

In the Cesidian Root, nations without recognised states such as the Dominion of British West Florida, the Kingdom of Pictland, and Antarcticland have their own dedicated top-level domains, but also the free nation of Burma in exile has a top-level domain, which is an alternative to the one managed by the tyrannical government of Myanmar. The Cesidian Root has also granted a top-level domain to an organisation officially representing Western Armenia, a people who were nearly exterminated by genocide, and which enjoy neither a free nor independent homeland, but also have no rights to their own culture under the imperialistic and fascist ICANN/IANA system, which grants rights only to nation-states, and certain wealthy corporations.

The Cesidian Root has also created additional top-level domains for peaceful nation-states like Italy, as well as for royal families such as the Savoy (Savoia) Royal House of Italy, who enjoy no privileges today, and even their noble titles are not recognised under Italian law.

The Cesidian Root has also created top-level domains for churches, in a true spirit of separation of church and state. This spirit is entirely ignored in the US government's ICANN/IANA system, whose First Amendment to the US Constitution in theory says a lot about religious rights, but in fact the US government still acts in a way that assumes that a government is superior to a church, or superior to anyone's religion. Perhaps the US government's ICANN/IANA root even thinks government is superior to the Creator of Man, and that in the beginning there was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was the US government too! Well, the Cesidian Root believes the Word was a crucified man, who bore the sins of men upon himself, and treats the DNS Word as if owned by empathetic men, not tyrannical and arrogant governments.

The Cesidian Root has also created top-level domains (TLDs) for Internet communities such as the CU-SeeMe user community; a TLD for pirate fans and the Pirate Party International (one domain is also used by the now legally-operating The Pirate Bay); TLDs for intergovernmental organisations of states such as the Commonwealth of Nations and the International States Parliament for Safety and Peace, even though the former organisation will have nothing to do with Tallini and his precious work; and even allowed the resolution of Chinese, Arabic, and Russian language TLDs, long before they were approved as mere experiments by the ICANN/IANA root.

The Cesidian Root is not only the sole non-commercial, free, peaceful, and genuinely Open Internet on the planet. The Cesidian Root is also an emergency root; an economical root for the poor, and those who enjoy limited or no human rights; and an alternative root for everyone, from humbled royals to exalted geeks!

One of the Cesidian Root's master root servers was even used recently by the Google Code Namebench project in its experiments, and the Cesidian Root may have also played a role in compelling the ICANN/IANA root to reluctantly consider the adoption of non-Roman alphabet domain names.

If there is an Open Internet for Peace, one that honours both royals and commoners, UN states and MPR micronations, the wealthiest people and the poorest; then the Cesidian Root is that Internet, not the commercially-centred ICANN/IANA root.

The book, The Fifth World: Micronationalism on Steroids

If the “Obama should legalise micronations” petition makes it very feasible for governments like the United States to actually legalise micronations; if Cesidian law provides a legal and philosophical foundation for overturning the illegitimate monopoly that states currently exercise over the Internet; then the book, The Fifth World: Micronationalism on Steroids, published by the HMRD Cesidio Tallini on 8 August 2009, scientifically demonstrates, through the Tallini World Formula, why it is imperative that states begin to legalise Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth World nations.

The Tallini World Formula, a third degree equation, shows that the United Nations' world of states and states only can only be justified by political pseudoscience, not by genuine political science, which shows that in reality six worlds exist, and need to be acknowledged, not just the three official and often arrogant worlds represented at the United Nations.

The book, The Fifth World: Micronationalism on Steroids, thus provides a solid foundation of scientific ideas for global peace, and in effect the world's most rigorously accurate and advanced political science.
